

The Big Test By:Corey Pittman

One day,John met a new friend. His name was Alex. They became best buds. They were in the same class and they were in 5th grade. They would do everything together. Everyday they would go over each other house because they live close to each other. When Alex and Craig got out of school they went to their houses and right when they got home they got on the phone. They talk and talk all afternoon.

"John have you been studying for the test on Friday." Alex said. Suddenly John froze. "Are you ok." Alex said. "Oh no." John said. "I forgot to study." "The test in on Friday and it is Thursday and I haven't studied all week." "You I going to have to cheat tomorrow and give me the answers."John said. "No way I can't get in trouble" Alex said. "So how am I going to get a good grade" he replied."Well just come over for we can study for the test." Alex said. Ok Alex I am coming to your house right now.

Time To Study

"Thanks for letting me come over and study Alex." John said. "No problem."Alex replied. "So what is the test about" John said. "Well it is about math so we are doing long division,adding and subtracting decimals, and multiplying fractions" Alex said. "Oh,that math is not that hard" Craig said. I know right. So they studied all afternoon until it got dark so Craig had to go home.

The Test

When John and Alex got to school they started to get ready for the test. John was so nervous because he wanted to get a good grade and he wondered If he knew everything for the test. When the teacher gave them the test. They started right away. John was so frustrated because he forgot how to do long division. Alex was doing just fine on the test. They had 5 minutes left for the test. Alex was done but Craig was still not understanding long division. But he had to hurry up because they have a few more minutes. So he just tried to do the math. After the test they got to go outside for 15 minutes. When John and Alex got outside they started talking about the test. "How did you on the test John" Alex said. "I think I did not do that good because I forgot how to do long division." John said. It is okay Alex said. We will see the scores next week.