

The Hacker: By Joshua Hunter

On a sunny saturday, James and Michael woke up and went to go play on their Xbox Ones. "What should we play?" James said. "We should play Fortnite" Michael replied. After that, James and Michael played duos on Fortnite. By the time James and Michael were going against the last duo team, one of the people on the duo team teleported to them and one shotted them with the worst gun in the game!

"HOW DID HE KILL US!?" Michael said. Michael later reported the person and left the game. After a few hours of playing duo games, it was about 8:45 PM. James heard a buzz sound coming from his phone. He grabbed the phone from his pocket and saw a creepy message saying "You think reporting me is gonna do anything? You think i'm gonna get banned? Your wrong. I can and WILL access your personal information, and can locate your house and GO THERE!"

James was terrified. He was confused of why the message was sent to him. He and Michael's parents weren't home still, and they did not know what to do. "Wait, was this the hacker off of Fortnite?" James said. "It might be!" Michael replied. "Michael! We're only 12, we can't beat him up if he's a big person." James said. "I know, but we can set traps! That way, we don't have to beat him up." Michael said. "I don't want the person to get.." "We won't kill him." Michael interrupted.

James did a BIG sigh of relief and started getting materials to set up a trap. After about 15 minutes of setting traps, Michael and

James heard the front door unlocking. “Quick! We have to hide!” Michael said. The random person started walking through the kitchen, not noticing the greasy oil spread on the floor. When the random person walked by, SLIP! He slipped, fell, and knocked his own self out with a concussion. “Oh my gosh! Did he die!?” James said. “Nah, it looks like he just slipped and fell, then got knocked out or something.” Michael said. 5 minutes later, James and Michael’s parents came home and saw the traps, and the winded random person just lying there. “WHAT IS GOING ON!?” the mom said.

“WE CAN EXPLAIN! So, me and James were playing fortnite, and there was this hacker who sent us a creepy saying something about him being able to locate our house and some creepy stuff like that, then he came into the house and we set traps to stop him from doing some scary stuff to us!” “Oh! Well We’re glad you guys are okay!” both parents said.

A minute later, the cops were called and the random burglar person was arrested. Later, James, Michael, and their parents got a security system that detects people that try to break in, and the family lived a good life.